UIBE teams placed first and second in China's prestigious, "Peak Time Global Business Strategy Competition."

Reaping the rewards after hard work

The three-month long competition took place at Shanghai Universities GLMBA Center on February 28 2009. The resulting success is something the team can be very proud of. UIBE's International Business School young MBA team walked off with the first and second places.

However, far from resting on their laurels, the team must prepare for the Global final competition of Peak Time Global Business Strategy, which takes place in Latvia this coming May.

For the 9th year running, the Peak Time Global Business Strategy Competition has also been the setting for bringing together MBA students, business school professors, but also executive level managers from some of the world's leading companies; to exchange ideas, make contacts, and pave the way for future collaborations.

Sharing in the joy of accomplishment

UIBE's jubilant International Business School MBA dream team includes Gu

Xiaoyan, Hu Ping, Liu Pei (Year 2007), Man Jun, Wang Lei, Zhang Junqin, Xu Yang, Wang Chao, Liu Su, and Tang Weiwei (Year 2008).

UIBE's International Business School pays a great deal of attention to helping their students develop problem-solving and analytical skills. Prestigious national and international competitions complement their normal MBA coursework. Exposing them to such experiences creates an environment conducive to developing important skills across a broad range of fields, such as cross-cultural communication, and the spirit of competitiveness.

The team trained hard, and overcame many trials, nevertheless through perseverance, they prevailed. Working together, honing their skills, developing appropriate strategies paid off.

On their offtime, the MBA students spent many hours in conversation with their fellow participants from Renmin University, Zhong Shan University, and Shanghai Jiao Tong University.

Go UIBE!!!
